At present, there are 260 such complexes which are active throughout the country, and share and care for each other; particularly those which are in close physical proximity.

1.0.2 Historical Background

Through the idea of Sahodaya Schools complexes was first mooted by the Education Commission, 1966. The first national conference of Principals of CBSE affiliated schools organised by CBSE in collaboration with schools and establishing linkages in academic and other co-curricular and cultural activities. The idea of Sahodaya Schools Complexes was further concretised when CBSE, jointly with NPSC, organised a two day conference of school principals and teachers in Delhi in October 1986.
